The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

True Joy in Christmas Giving

For a number of years now, a plea has been made in this column for participants to aid little girls in an orphanage in Mexicali.

The project was started by some newspaper people and their effort has been recounted in the columns of this publication over the years.

Many donors to this cause began accompanying their clothing gifts to the orphanage and they find the trip rewarding enough to make it again and again.

Those who make the first trip go as strangers but return as warm friends of a couple of dozen or more citizens who are likewise making their first pilgrimage.

The building housing this newspaper is a designated drop-off point for local persons who want to send a little girl orphan a functional gift.

But let newsman Ken Reiley, the father of the aid project, tell how it works:

Dear Friends of the Orphanage:

Since 1960 a group of us has been collecting letters to Santa Claus from the girls of the House of the Good Shepherd Orphanage in Mexicali and distributing them among those of us who like to share our Christmas spirit with the less fortunate.

This year we will do it again and are asking you to help us make Christmas a real holiday for homeless girls.

There will be a slight difference this year, however, Steps have been taken to form a non-profit corporation led by unpaid officers to handle the complicated dealings of accepting gifts under California law. The corporation, to be called "Orphan Kids, Inc." or "O.K., Inc", will make it legally possible for donors to deduct their contributions. There will be no offices, no furniture, no salaries; all contributions will be used for gifts and mailing costs. The officers of "O.K., Inc." will operate out of their homes as in the past.

Attendance at the orphanage fluctuates at about 75 girls raing in age from 10 to 17. At the school, "Hogar Buen Pastor", they are taught to cook and sew and eventually 'graduate' to the outside world with jobs.

Many were found begging on the streets and brought to the orphanage for their own safety; others are orphans, or abandoned — or brought to the orphanage by a deserted mother who cannot properly care for her children.

Throughout the 19 years we have been going to the orphanage with trucks and campers filled with gifts, there have been several sponsors, but never a permanent organization — one that would stay with the project year after year. We think we have finally solved that problem with "O.K., Inc.".

One year the project was abandoned because of a lack of a sponsor, but two tearful nuns made the trip to San Diego in the rain to plead for someone to help so that the girls would enjoy a Christmas which would differ from an ordinary day. We did manage it after a late start and it has been limping along since then.

The format of the program is simple. The girls copy one of three letters to Santa from a blackboard. The letters ask for the most commonplace items in our ordinary lives — soap, toothpaste, toothbrushes, underwear, towels, etc. The girls are permitted to ask for one extraordinary gift, usually a sweater or material for a dress.

If you would like one of these letters you will get it. If you want us to shop for you, we will do so. If you want to go to the orphanage and deliver your gift in person, you are welcome to come along to see exactly where your gift goes.

If you would like to participate cal or write to any of the following:

Ken Reiley 427-6696 (714) (& Caroline)
150 Via de Laurencio, Chula Vista, CA 92010
Rose Cottam 463-6713 (714) (& Carl)
3135 Peg Leg Mine Rd., Jamul, CA 92035
Nancy Morgan 735-3321 (714) (& Larry)
1096 Urania Ave., Leucadia, CA 92024
O.K., Inc.
P.O. Box 1138, Lemon Grove, CA 92045

We have people who have been involved in this project for many years and can vouch for the fact that every dime contributed goes to the girls. We will give you these names if you wish.

But the primary purpose of this letter is to determine if you are interested in helping us get gifts to these unfortunate girls. We hope to hear from you soon.

What better way to celebrate the greatest holiday of the year than by sharing your joy with a deprived child.

Sincerely,
Kenneth C. Reiley

Operation 1000 Collection Tonight

"Over 1,1000 families will be helped," said Sergeant Jerry Alexander about Operation 1000, the San Diego Police Department's annual drive to help the needy families of San Diego during the Christmas season.

Operation 1000 is in its 14th year and with the help of community organizations and businesses it has continued to expand throughout the years. Locally, the Roadrunners Club, a Spring Valley-Lemon Grove Car Club have Lemon Grove Car Club, have project expand this year as well.

Tonight, starting at 7 p.m., the Roadrunners will be operating a drop-off point near the Winchell's Donut House located at 7863 Broadway. Local residents are encouraged to stop by and make a donation of canned goods, useable toys or cash.

"We're a little behind in canned goods and money," Alexander said. The project is accepting cash in an attempt to buy every family affected by the program a turkey for the holidays.

Alexander explained that each family involved in the project comes down to the Department and receives one bag of canned goods, a turkey, and a toy for each child in the family.

During the evening, a display of police vehicles will be open for public inspection. Santa will also be on hand, waving to passerbys and encouraging people to stop by and donate.

The success of Operation 1000 depends on community groups and individuals, Alexander said. "Without them we wouldn't have a program."

S.V. Girl Dies In Auto Crash

Utility Bills Rise As Temperature Dips

Area residents who tried to warm up last week from record breaking cold weather will see an increase in their gas and electric bills beginning next week.

According to an SDG&E spokesman Lemon Grove and Spring Valley homeowners used up to 20 per cent more energy one record breaking day.

A low of 29 was recorded by the Lemon Grove fire department for Friday. The last time it was that cold was December 23, 1968.

The record for the all time low since the fire department began keeping their records in 1963 was 25 degrees January 13, 1963.

Countywide a gas demand record for one hour was set between 7 and 8 a.m. last Thursday when SDG&E supplied 20.56 million cubic feet of natural gas for residential use. The normal cold morning demand is between 15 and 16 million cubic feet per hour.

Friday saw the record set for a single December day with 341 million cubic feet of gas being delivered during a 24-hour period starting at 6 a.m. Thursday. The previous record was 284 million cubic feet set December 11, 1972.

The high demand required the vaporization of 33 million cubic feet of liquefied natural gas from the utility's LNG facility in South Bay.

Workmen from SDG&E have been answering calls from customers to have their furnace pilot lights lit. Thousands of customers requested service last week and faced up to a week delay, a company spokesman said.

As temperatures edged up this week area residents were told to expect normal winter temperatures (about 45 degrees Fahrenheit for central San Diego, cooler in the east county) this entire winter and above normal amounts of rainfall.

A normal winter, however, will seem unusually cold because the past three winters have been very mild for San Diego county. Last winter was the warmest on record, according to weather records.

During the 1973-74 winter, the last one with normal temperatures, the average bill for 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity and 70 therms of gas totaled $22.19. Inflation has pushed the cost for similar use now to $39.61.

$20 Bills Among Loss

The residence of Jimmy Royce Thomas, 1221 Sweetwater rd., in Spring Valley was burglarized last week while he was away.

His loss amounted to $315 and the items taken included 7 $20 bills, a pair of shoe skates, an electric blanket and a Panasonic portable tape recorder-radio, he told officers of the L.G. Police Department.

Purse Snatched in LG

A Negro male, about 18, was described as the person who snatched the purse of Beverly Diana Turner of San Diego after she had completed her shopping in the Alpha Beta Shopping Center at 7117 Broadway, Lemon Grove on December 5 about 10:30 p.m.

Her loss, she reported to the office of the Sheriff in Lemon Grove was $355.

Intruder Rejects Gifts

Christmas presents were opened and left strewn about the room of the Lemon Grove home of Dominic Anthony Recchia, 1855 Skyline dr., but the burglar got away with $930 worth of items he preferred to the gifts.

Loot included collector's coins, a watch and a Sheriff's Airborne Search and Rescue badge No. 152.

The loss was discovered when Recchia and his wife returned from work at 8 p.m. December 7.

10,000 Pennies Taken

Craig Bruce Jones, 1853 Madera st., Lemon Grove, told police that someone took $100 in pennies from his residence while he was away.

The burglar forced the front door of his residence to get to the coins, it was reported.

License Renewals Go to Head Office

The California Department of Motor Vehicles will begin sending out vehicle registration renewal notices this month under a new system that will save the State about $1 million over the next 2 years, Director Doris V. Alexis reported.

Instead of motorists mailing their registration renewal to the local DMV office, they will now mail them directly to Sacramento. A return envelope will be provided in an attempt to encourage mail-ins.

The $1 million in savings will be realized through reduced handling and postage costs and increased interest revenue, it was said.

"Another important feature of the program is that before the renewal sticker is returned to the customer, the information will first be entered into the computer," DMV officials say.

Previously, the update information was entered into the computer after the sticker was sent out causing a delay between sticker issuance and computer update.

The volume of business under the new process is expected to be 6.5 million items, corresponding to the number of mail renewals DMV offices currently are receiving.

Mattress Bank Robbed of $2,000

2 stacks of currency, each $1,000 tall, were taken from the under-the-mattress hiding place from the residence of Jack Murphy, of Galopago st. in Spring Valley between November 22 and 24, he reported last week.

The stacks, made up of $20 bills, were said to be receipts from his business.

His profession was not listed.

School Candy Sales Ban Likely to Get Board's OK

The Lemon Grove Board of Education will set on a candy-sales policy for students at their next regularly scheduled board meeting January 9. The board agreed in principle on a tentative policy submitted to them by Superintendent Bob Sutton Tuesday night.

Lone dissenter from the policy which would limit candy sales to after school hours was Dave Spisak who asked the board to put more teeth into the policy.

Spisak could not muster the rest of the board's support however, and had to contend with a request to Sutton to have an analysis of the impact of the policy on the district before a decision is made at the next meeting.

The policy would also require schools and related organizations to apply for fund-raising activities for approval. Board member Vicky Morgan said it would allow the board to implement the policy and yet leave it flexible enough for groups who held fund raising actvities.

In other action Sutton reported that the district had reported to the state a racial balance ratio for the district that indicated that no school was more than 15 percent out of balance from what was reflected district-wide.

Sutton was to meet Wednesday morning with a state representative to discuss other filing procedures for the racial balance statement.

Sutton also reported a high absenteeism rate at the beginning of the week for the junior highs which was 40 percent at Palm Junior High and approximately 20 percent at Lemon Grove.

L.G. Principal Ilse Hanning said most of the complaints were of fever and headches unlike the illness that has stricken the Julian community, which included stomach disorders and at one time shut down the school.

Body Shop Burglarized

Burglars took items valued at $460 from the shop of Lockmann Body and Paint at 2295 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove on December 6.

Harry LeRoy Lockman reported that a slide hammer, impact wrench, air-powered sander, air powered ratchet wrench and other body-type tools were taken from his shop while it was closed for the night.

In all, his loss was $460, he reported.

Spring Valley Firm Loot Tops $15,000

Loss of $15,205 was suffered by Perry Electric Co. at 325 Elkelton in Spring Valley, it was reported on December 7.

Included in the loss were hand tools, pavement breakers, a boring device and 1972 Ford pickup truck.

Burglars entered the firm's yards prior to December 7, an executive of the firm reported to the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office.

Business Firms Must File Name Every 5 Years

Fictitious Business Name Statements filed in 1973 expire of December 31 of this year.

"Every firm conducting its business under a name that does not disclose the real owner, or owners, must have a Fictitious Business Name Statement on file with the county clerk in accordance with the Business and Professions Code of California," "If any businessman has questions about the applicability of this law to his firm he should consult his attorney," he added.

A fictious business name statement expires on December 31 of the fifth year after the year in which it was filed. On or before that date it must be re-filed with the county clerk. If there have been any changes, it must be republished. There is a statutory charge of $10 for filing, payable to the county clerk. This newspaper charges $20 for publication. Publication must start within 30 days of filing, once a week for four consecutive weeks.

Publications of original filings, and refilings, are to be in a newspaper of general circulation which is published in the county. If there is a choice of newspapers, it should be published in a newspaper circulated in the area in which the firm conducts business.

The newspaper office has the forms (which we provide free of charge) and we can handle filings, re-filings, requests for searches, and publication, for any business requiring it.

Fictitious business name statements provide a ready means of determining the names of the owners of a business using a fictitious firm name. Publication of these statement keeps the general public informed of business names and their owners. The five year limit and requirement for re-filing and keeps the county clerk's list of businesses continuously updated.

Her purse contained $620 of the firm's receipts and $1,500 in personal cash and valuables.

'Silent Night, Holy Night,' Endearing After 160 Years

By Mil Chipp

The author, who resides in El Cajon, is a veteran journalist who worked for The Copley Press for 30 years. He was news director of The San Diego Union and Evening Tribune for 10 years prior to his retirement in 1976. He now is a correspondent for United Press International. The writer has visited Oberndorf, the Austrian village where "Silent Night, Holy Night" came into being 160 years ago on Chrisimas Eve.

It has been 160 years since "Silent Night, Holy Night" first was sung in the tiny chapel of St. Nicholas at Oberndorf, Austria.

Since that Christmas Eve in 1818, innumerable legends have been woven around the birth of the world's most beloved carol and have been told and re-told by one generation to the next.

"Silent Night, Holy Night" today is sung in the smallest village churches; it opens and closes the Christmas services of the world's most famous cathedrals; it has been adapted for every instrument, for symphony orchestras, huge choirs and children's groups; its words have been translated into almost all the languages of the globe; the words touch everybody with their simplicity and their message of the peace and happiness of the season.

The author of the lyrics was Father Josef Mohr, vicar of St. Nicholas. He was a deeply religious man who believed in the goodness of mankind. His close companion was Franz Gruber, teacher and organist from nearby Arnsdorf, who wrote the music.

Peace had returned to Europe after the Napoleonic wars, and people in Oberndorf on the Salzach River were getting ready for midnight Mass. This year the service would be less impressive, they felt, because the old organ was in need of repair and they would have no music. Little did they know that their young pastor and his friend had collaborated on a Christmas song for the community, a simple melody that would touch their hearts and fill them with tremendous joy.

Father Mohr finished the verses late in the afternoon of Dec. 23 and took them to Gruber, who scored them for two voices and choir in a short time. Playing a guitar as accompaniment, Father Mohr blended his tenor with Gruber's bass in the melody, while the choir repeated the last two lines of each of the original six stanzas in four-part harmony.

Nobody knows whether "Silent Night" was first presented during or after the Mass. Most believe it was sung just before the congregation left the chapel, but it is certain that the church-goers were deeply moved.

During the Spring of 1819, Carl Mauracher traveled to Oberndorf to repair the organ. While working on the instrument, he found the hymn, listened to it and was so impressed that he asked to take it to his home in the Tyrol, an area of many traveling singers. It also was heard by the Strasser brothers, glove-makers who regularly visited customers and attended trade fairs all over Germany.

Thirteen years later a Catholic choir in Leipzig sang "Silent Night" and it was from there that this "Tyrolean folk song" started its long, glorious journey around the world.

Everybody loved it, yet nobody seemed to know where it had originated. Not until 36 years later, in 1854, did a member of the Imperial Court Chapel in Berlin begin to search for its creator.

In December of that year, Franz Gruber, who had been appointed organist and choirmaster of the parish church in Hallein, wrote a letter to Berlin, supplying the authentic background of the carol and enclosing short biographies of himself and Father Mohr.

From this letter it is known that Father Mohr was born Dec. 11, 1792, on Salzburg's Steingasse, only a 10-minute walk from the house on the other side of the Salzach River where Mozart was born.

He financed his studies at the famous high school in Kremsmuenster in Upper Austria by giving music lessons. After high school, he attended the seminary in Salzburg, where he was ordained to the priesthood Aug. 21, 1815. Father Mohr died Dec. 4, 1849, as the vicar of Wagrain near Salzburg.

Loved and cherished by everyone, he was so poor that the city had to pay for his burial.

Franz Gruber also came from a modest background. Born Nov. 25, 1787, in Unterweinburg, he developed an interest in music at an early age. He took violin lessons, and started playing the organ, over the initial objections of his father, a poor linen weaver.

Gruber took a teaching job in the village of Arnsdorf and played the organ in St. Nicholas church in Oberndorf, where he became close friends with Father Mohr. In 1833, Gruber took the post in Hallein, where he remained until his death June 7, 1863.

The old church of St. Nicholas is no longer there. Battered by the flood waters of the Salzach, it saw its last service in 1903. In its place stands a memorial chapel called the Silent Night Chapel, which today is a major attraction for tourists from all over the world.

Solo-Artist Feliciano Guest of Symphony

The San Diego Symphony Celebrity Pops Concert on Tuesday, December 19 at 7:30 p.m. in Golden Hall will feature a Christmas medley and sing-along under the direction of Associate Conductor Charles Ketcham. Special guest artist, composer, singer, guitarist Jose Feliciano will perform many of his record hits, including: "Light My Fire", "Chico And The Man", and "It's All Right, Mama".

Although blind since birth, Jose Feliciano is as enthusiastic about life as if the gift of sight were something of a lesser miracle. An intuitive and introspective artist, he worked his way up from Greenwich Village and smoke-filled coffee houses to the ultimate concert experiences—Carnegie Hall and the London Palladium. Whatever the size of the room, there's always the unique Feliciano imprint: a blend of deft artistry and one-to-one intimacy. He describes the essence of his own sounds as "good-feelin'" music.

Within the past decade, Jose Feliciano has achieved spectacular success. As of now, he's one of the top entertainers in the world, and has enthralled audiences in North and South America, the Far East and Europe. He's also recorded a series of Spanish-Language LP's for the Latin Markets; given a somewhat unbelievable concert for 100,000 cheering fans at Brazil's Mar del Plata Festival; appeared with symphony orchestras in the United States and Great Britain; had outstanding success with his Las Vegas performances; written and performed original compositions for Sesame Street; scored music for a forthcoming film; sold records in excess of 86 million and received 32 Gold Records.

A vibrant person, Jose Feliciano has learned to fish, play baseball, and even ski. "There are lots of things a blind person can do, even though everyone has been telling him he can't. When I was about 12, some people used to say, 'Don't be an entertainer. Take vocational rehabilitation and we'll set you up with a newspaper stand.' When I refused, they said, 'Why do you have to be so difficult?' Well, I'm sure glad I was difficult."

The Symphony Celebrity Pops concert starring Jose Feliciano will be presented in Golden Hall on Tuesday, December 19 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for the concert are now on sale at the Center Box Office.

11 Area Volunteers Serve At Alvarado Hospital

"The whole concept of volunteers has changed in the six-and-a-half years I've been at Alvarado Community Hospital," smiled Joan Larch-Miller, former Lemon Grove resident and past PTA president at San Altos Elementary School.

Alvarado's Director of Volunteers eased back in her office chair and sipped a steaming cup of coffee and continued, "From the benevolent 'do-gooder' to folks who have a talent in wanting to exercise something of themselves in a meaningful way. That's where the changes have been. I am grateful for those change too."

Today, the Alvarado Community Hospital Volunteers number 224 including 11 members from the Spring Valley-Lemon Grove areas, and 19 men. They are officially known as the Alvarado-Damas-de-Servico (Women of Service). The title no longer fits, with the men on hand.

The Spring Valley Volunteers are: Gale Kukuk, Betty Hinson, Convalescent Hospital; Betty Bostwick, Information; Wanda Gale, Solarium; Elsie Martens, Medical Records and Erma Taylor, Gift Shop.

The Lemon Grove residents who volunteer time at the hospital include: Rae Loomis, Gift Shop; Wilma Demling, Information; Dora Mathews, Solarium; Betty Schultz, Medical Records and Myrtle Torgerson, Alvarado Convalescent and Rehabilitatiion Hospital.

"Our volunteers range in age from 16-80 with the average age somewhere in the middle 40's," offered Joan. "They are a tremendously talented group of giving people.

"They are serious, good workers wanting to learn, and, I might add, as well trained, if no more so, than most hospital volunteers across the country."

Alvarado's volunteers do most everything from working in Administration to helping admit and discharge patients. "In fact," admits the director, "they run the full strand of hospital chores except surgery and recovery."

"The advantage to that," she said, "is that the hospital it not 'buying a pig-in-the poke' type of employee. The Personnel Department knows what kind of workers they have hired. Competent and experienced hospital people."

Unlike other volunteer groups, the Alvarado Volunteers (Auxiliary) does not engage in fund raising events. They are a total working force. The only way that the volunteers raise monies is through the Gift Shop, managed by Penny Spear. Funds from the shop go towards scholarships for high school students, LVN's gearing themselves to become RN's through education and for employees and volunteers. Gift Shop funds also go into a special project known as EASE where sums are loaned to individuals who have a temporary financial need.

African Art On Exhibition

San Diego Collects: African Art, an exhibition of San Diego African art collections, opens at the San Diego Museum of Art Saturday, and continues through January 7, 1979.

28 local collectors are represented by the approximately 150 wood, clay, metal, leather, and fiber objects included in the exhibition.

The works demonstrate the involvement of African art in all aspects of life. The exhibit will include objects which are associated with cult observances, which express social status, prestige, and wealth, and which enrich and enhance the various activities of domestic life aesthetically. Male and female figures which venerate ancestors and give form to the spirit world are exhibited, as are headdresses and helmets, face masks and fiber masks, blankets and prestige clothes, pipes and rhythm-pounders, divining boards and game boards, combs and chieftain's chairs.

The exhibition was guest curated by Dr. Charles H. Cutter, Associate Professor of Political Science and Dr. Janet Brody Esser, Assistant Professor of Art History, San Diego State University.

'Riv Vu' Opens At Fiesta Theatre

The witty and sympathetic Bob Randall comedy "6 Rms Riv Vu" opened yesterday at the Fiesta Dinner Theatre.

The apartment is a setting of promise for new romance. The play answers the question: Would Andy Hardy and Doris Day have an affair, given the opportunity? The difference in "6 Rms Riv Vu," is that this Andy Hardy type fellow entertains fantasies about what might be under Wonder Woman's bracelets, and our middle-class lady keeps pot in a cookie jar.

"6 Rms Riv Vu" is presented nightly except Mondays, with Wednesday and Sunday matinees, at the Fiesta Dinner Theatre, 9665 Campo rd., Spring Valley.

Included in the admission is a three-entree buffet dinner, parking, taxes, and the live Broadway hit show. For reservations call 697-8977.

Holiday Exhibit At Museum of Man

A special exhibit of "Creches" or Nativity scenes, from Italy, Denmark, Spain, Colombia, and many other countries aorund the world are on display at the Museum of Man, now through Friday.

The collection is owned by Mrs. R. W. Brett, a San Diegan intrigued by the differences in "Creches" from many cultures. She has been collecting for 30 years. According to Mrs. Brett, the Nativity was interpreted according to the culture of each country and reflects the country's material and artistry. For example, the Mexican Creche is made of that area's indigent heavy, red clay.

This special holiday exhibit is located on the first floor of the Museum of Man, Balboa Park. The museum is open daily, 10 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Speaker Calls for Attack On Discipline Problems

Although the public continues to consider discilpine the number one problem in schools, California teachers are not trained to handle it in the classroom, a joint convention of school administrators and school boards in Anaheim was told recently.

The speaker, Gene Bedly, principal of an elementary school in Ircine, called for behavior agreements or contracts signed by the student, parent, teacher, and principal as part of a total school plan.

Students need to know what teachers expect of them, he said.

"They need to know the limits," Bedley warned. "Most homes don't have any limits and the kids just have to guess. They're in worse shape than we are."

If teachers work together to orient parents and effectively communicate with them, teachers will have less problems in the classroom, Bedley believes.

Gallery Plans Ivorism Show

Over 200 examples of Norwegian Artist Ivor's work will be shown at the Spanish Village in Balboa Park December 16-January 6th. Ivor's style of work, which has yet to duplicated, is known as Ivorism.

Although Ivor has been shown widely throughout the world as a professional artist for the past ten years, he has been painting for forty years. At the age of 8, Ivan was recognized by the University of Oslo and tested for his I.Q. At the time he was found to be exceptionally gifted in art.

Ivor, who uses only a palette knife, often creates reliefs which stand as much as 3 inches from the canvas. The lighting which he achieves with his work is also appealing.

HOME-COOKED This Week's RECIPE

Easy Dessert Dish Baklava For Harried Holiday Hostess

When every minute counts in party preparations, it is nice to be able to take short cuts with helpers from the freezer. You can treat guests to the Greek pastry, Baklava, that takes only minutes to make. It's delightfully rich pastry layered with honey and walnuts and served with whipped cream.

You merely stack defrosted puff patty shells one on top of the other and roll out to a 9" square. Sprinkle with walnuts and dribble with honey and repeat with additional layers.

BAKLAVA

- 2 packages frozen patty shells, thawed in refrigerator
- 3 cups finely chopped walnuts or pecans
- 1 cup honey, warmed
- frozen whipped topping, optional

Line an 8x8x2 inch cake pan with foil. Grease lightly, Stack 3 thawed patty shells, one atop the other. On lightly floured surface roll out into a 9-inch square. With a sharp knife, trim down to an 8½ inch square. Place in bottom of cake pan. Sprinkle with 1-cup chopped walnuts and dribble with ¼ cup honey. Repeat process three times making the top layer plain pastry. Mark pastry into diamond pattern with tip of sharp knife. Bake to 425° F. oven for 20-25 minutes. Let cool slightly in pan. Brush surface with last of warm honey. Remove from pan and peel away from foil. Cut into diamonds. Serve with more honey or whipped cream if desired.

Makes 12 servings.

Aztec Hoopsters Invade Pauley Pavilion Saturday

Instant credibility.

That—among other things—s what the San Diego State basketball team stands to gain from a win over UCLA on Saturday as they travel to Pauley Pavilian for a match-up with the Bruins at 8 p.m.

With recent victories over highly-rated teams like San Francisco and Toledo the Aztecs would be a sure bet to move into the nation's Top 20 with a win over the powerful Bruins.

"If and when that happens," says Coach Tim Vezie, "that will be exciting. But for now we just have to play the game. Maybe if we'd beaten Oregon, we'd be there now."

Since the opening loss to Oregon the Aztecs have reeled off 4 straight victories, giving them their fastest start since 1970. On Saturday they defeated an excellent Toledo team, 65-57, with a late-game spurt iginted by the 20-point second half of forward Kim Goetz.

"This will be our biggest game around here in a long time," says Vezie of the impending showdown. "We have to stress defense. We have to minimize the opportunities for their good shooters to shoot. We are improving as a team, but we're still not where we want to be offensively. But we have confidence in ourselves and we will be very well prepared for this game."

The Bruins are coming off an 81-78 loss to Notre Dame and they have not lost 2 games in a row since 1974. They depend on consensus All-American forward David Greenwood (who is averaging 20 points and more than 9 rebounds per game) and a great-shooting backcourt tandem of Roy Hamilton and Brad Holland. As a team the Bruins shoot 54.7%. Like the Aztecs, they are being outrebounded for the season.

The Aztecs will start Steve Malovic at center (the team's leading scorer and rebounder), Kim Goetz and Presnell Gilbert at forwards, and Mike Dodd and Tony Gwynn at the guards.

Town Policy in Race

LOS ALAMITOS — Town Policy, the nation's leading money earning gelding, will likely make his winter debut in Saturday's $25,000-added Directors' Handicap at Los Alamitos as the HQHRA meeting moves into its second weekend of action.

Quarter horse racing will be conducted six afternoons weekly, Tuesday through Sunday, through Dec. 23 with a 1 p.m. post. Racing switches to nighttime action on Christmas and continues until closing on Feb. 13.

THE OLD GUARD

Officially, the Texas Rangers were organized as a police force in 1835, but unofficially the Rangers operated as far back as 1823.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

I don't sound off very often about my military career or my place in our country's history.

I'm not at all public about being one of our nation's great heros, though I do bow three times from the waist each month on the occasion of the delivery of my retirement check.

For those who care about such things, I would just remind them that I enlisted in the Navy in August of 1945 and when the Japanese heard I was coming, they quit.

I don't know how many lives I saved by bringing an early end to the war, and I wish I could have enlisted sooner, but I joined when I was just 16 as it was.

Needless to say, over the next 21 years or so, Uncle Sam's Navy saw to it that I grew up and saw some of the world. I was introduced to San Diego in late 1947 and knew from day one that here would be my home when my sailing days were done.

Things were a little different then. Spring Valley was open country, Lemon Grove was an overnight ride on the stage and land in Clairement sold for $360 an acre.

It was in late 1948 or early 1949 that the Navy tried to get the City of San Diego to take over the Naval Air Station at Miramar, but the city said no, Miramar was too far out and they didn't need another airport, they had Lindbergh Field.

One thing hasn't changed since those days. The impact of the Navy on the woof and warp of life in the greater San Diego area. According to figures used by public officials, approximately one out of every four folks in our town are militarily connected.

And in payroll, allotment and retirement checks, one quarter of our population sure comes to one helluva lotta bucks.

It makes you wonder why some public officials tend to forget the Navy's posture whenever forgetting is convenient.

It might be a good idea to "remind" the city fathers and county cousins from time to time that the greatest single bunch of tax payers either wear a uniform or used to.

And with the Naval Academy coming out to take on Brigham Young at San Diego Stadium in the 1st annual Holiday Bowl, the opportunity for public reminder is upon us. And it's a dandy.

The impact would be tremendous. And it doesn't cost a single dime. Just a little planning and some encouragement.

What we need is the word passed down from Navy officials that the Holiday Bowl is a suitable activity for all active duty, retired and reserve officers and enlisted men and women to wear their uniform and that all hands are urged to do so.

Of course, some guys have grown several sizes since they retired, but with a needle and thread and a little letting out, most of them would be fit and ready for muster by game time on Dec. 22.

Admiral Thomas B. Hayward, the Chief of Naval Operations, will be here. He'll be the speaker at a Navy luncheon at the Town and Country Convention Center at noon on game day.

As many as 1,000 Midshipmen could march in for a Holiday cheer, with 100 more banging away in the Naval Academy Drum and Bugle Corps. Academy alumni in the San Diego area number something more than 2,000.

Add reserves, active duty and retired folk to that and a mighty impressive display of uniforms would fill the eye for all who still wonder how important the Navy is to San Diego.

Cup To Honor Nicholson Who Died of Cancer Sat.

A trophy in memory of the late Al Nicholson, who died Saturday after a lingering bout with cancer, will be awarded to the Pacific Coast Hockey League's most inspirational player, it was announced this week by the S.D. Hawks owner Elmer "Tig" Jonnet.

The voting will be done by the players throughout the PHL.

In a tribute to Nicholson, Jonnet has ordered black arm bands to be worn by the Hawk players for the balance of the PHL season.

"There never was a person in San Diego who helped me more than Al Nicholson did to restore the game of hockey here," said Jonnet. "It was under his guidance and advice that I pursued my course of action."

Jonnet also announced that an exhibition game will be played between the Hawks and the touring West German National Team. All the proceeds from that game will be given to the Nicholson family to help defray very heavy medical expenses incurred during Al's lengthy illness. A tentative date of Saturday, April 21, has been set for the game.

The Hawks also announced that they had acquired Dan Magnarelli, a goalie, from the L.A. Blades and released Wayne Wood. Magnarelli has been working out with the Blades but has not played this season.

Atlas Hotel Offers Holiday Bowl Aid

Two San Diego health care facilities — Children's Hospital and the Institute for Burn Medicine—will receive $1 for each dinner served by Atlas Hotels Inc. restaurants during the Holiday Bowl period.

Atlas President C. Terry Brown has directed that the donation be made for dinners served at any of the corporation's 7 Hotel Circle restaurants during the period of December 17-22.

Children's Hospital and the burn institute have been designated by Holiday Bowl officials as recipients of proceeds derived from the football championship.

Sockers Sign Walker McCall

The San Diego Sockers of the North American Soccer League filled the biggest hole in their forward line with the acquisition and signing of Walker McCall, their popular leading goalscorer in 1978.

The announcement was made by Sockers General Manager Marvin Milkes following a transatlantic telephone call from head coach Hubert Vogelsinger who was in Scotland for the negotiations. Said Milkes, "Obtaining the rights to Walker was high on our priority list because of his performance, popularity, and especially because of his potential."

McCall was obtained by the Sockers from his Ayr United club in Scotland and signed to a long-term contract. As a center-forward, the 6-3, 190 pound McCall appeared in 19 games for San Diego last season as a loan player.

Leading the team in goals-scored with 14, McCall scored three of the Sockers four goals during the NASL playoff games, including both goals in the 2-1 win over California in the opening round. His first goal in a San Diego uniform came just five minutes into his first game against Ft. Lauderdale. McCall was the club's second leading point scorer with 29 during the regular season.

Vogelsinger was more than pleased with the development saying, "We need a center-forward just like Walker to make our offense work. With Wingers like Jean Willrich and Yilmaz Orhan operating outside, you have to have that tall, strong player in the middle to put the ball away, and Walker is just that person. By putting him alongside Ade Caker we'll have two strikers that should perfectly compliment each other."

McCall, too, was happy to be returning to San Diego. "I'm pleased with the way things turned out and I'm looking forward to a good season in 1979. Heather and I particularly enjoyed the city and the people we met last summer."

Before joining Ayr in 1976, McCall spent 5 years with the famed Aberdeen club where he scored 78 goals in that time. With three seasons in Ayr he collected 71 goals.

Toreros Face 3 Tough Games

With 2 games, both victories, under their belt, the USD Toreros continue the current homestand Saturday at 8 p.m. against Cal State Dominguez in the USD Sports Center Gymnasium.

The Toreros return to action for a pair of games on Monday against Cal-Davis and Tuesday night USD hosts Cal State Hayward. Both games begin at 8 p.m. in the USD Sports Center Gym.

USD's scoring leader sophomore center Bob Bartholomew is averaging 15.6 points per game and he also has 37 rebounds to pace the Toreros in that category. Last season, he set a single season field goal percentage mark for shooting .571 from the field, this year he has made 30 of 52 attempts, a field goal percentage of .577.

Whale Watcher's Season to Start

"It's a whale of a sight" as a steady stream of "spouts" makes it way down the California coastline.

For 3 months, the California gray whales make their way from Alaska's Bering Sea to the warm bays and lagoons of Baja California, passing only a mile or so off the San Diego shoreline.

The whale's spectacular spout, or blow, is actually a sudden blast of released breath. Warm and damp, this condenses to a plume of vapor in the cool outer air. Whales generally blow about 3 times every 5 minutes when left undisturbed in ocean waters.

Between mid-December and mid-February each year, about 12,000 to 13,000 gray whales pass here heading south to the warm breeding grounds of Baja California. As many as 200 whales a day have been counted during mid-January, the peak of the migration period.

A free whale-watching station at Cabrillo National Monument on Point Loma offers a glassed-in observatory from which to spot whales, look at whale-life exhibits, and listen to a taped description of the whales' habits.

For a closer look, boating expeditions locate and follow schools of mammals, being careful not to disturb their southbound journey. Whale-watching cruises are operated by H & M Landing (222-1144), Islandia Sportfishing (222-1164), Seaforth Sportfishing (224-3383), or Helgren's Oceanside Sportfishing Trips (722-2133). The Scandinavian Navigation & Charter Company (298-6691) and the Natural History Museum (232-3821) also sponsor whale-watching trips.

Chargers (8-7) In Finale At Houston Sun. 1 P.M.

The curtain rings down on the season for the Chargers (8-7) when they meet the Oilers in the Houston Astrodome Sunday at 1 p.m.

The Chargers and Oilers represented the first significant rivalry in the late American Football League in 1960 with the Oilers winning in Houston 24-16. and repeated the following year 10-3 in San Diego. The Chargers lead the series 14-1 and won the last meeting 30-27 in 1976 here. The Chargers lead the series 14-10 and 1 tie.

Said Coryell, "Houston has clinched a playoff berth but still needs to win to have a home-field advantage for a wild-card playoff (with Miami). We were down to one regular defensive lineman in the second half against Miami."

The Chargers have won 6 of their last 7 games and have posted a 7-4 record since Head Coach Coryell took over September 25. The team is averaging 340.6 yards a game total offense under Coryell and ranks second in NFL in passing yards with 3,007 to Dallas' 3.020.

Quarterback Dan Fouts is concluding the best of his 6 NFL seasons with a career-high of 20 touchdowns and 2,630 yards. His 202 completions are 5 less than he threw in 1976. His 81.4 pass rating ranks 4th in the league behind Roger Staubach's 84.9, Archie Maning's 82.3, and Terry Bradshaw's 82.2. Fouts' touchdown pass total is 5th behind Bradshaw's 36, Staubach's 25. Fran Tarkenton's 22, and Brian Sipes' 21.

John Jefferson was named to the all-rookie team recently; it was the first honor Jefferson has earned in what has become the most productive season for a rookie wide receiver in Charger's history.

Jefferson has caught 49 passes, breaking the first-year record of 46 by Gary Garrison in 1966. Jefferson has caught 11 touchdown passes, the most by a Charger since Garrison had 12 in 1972, and two less than the NFL rookie record of 13 by Green Bay's Billy Howton in 1952.

"Let's just say Jefferson is a damn good football player," says Coryell. "Which means he'll do anything to win, including block. As a receiver he has great body control. He can stop his momentum, which some receivers can't do. This is one of his big plusses."

Jefferson also is tied for the AFC touchdown reception lead with Pittsburgh's Lynn Swann. Jefferson, Swann, and New England's Horace Ivory are tied for third in the AFC with 66 nonkicking points.

Hank Bauer has rushed for 8 touchdowns, 1 less than the club record set by Paul Lowe in 1961 . . . Rolf Benirschke has made 8 field goals in a row and his 82 points are the most since Dennis Partee scored 87 in 1971 . . . the Chargers are first in passing, 12th in rushing and 4th in total offense in the AFC . . . they are third in passing, sixth in rushing and third in total defense . . . Bob Horn leads the team with 108 tackles; Woodrow Lowe has 107 . . . Russ Washington set a club record by playing in consecutive game number 155 last week . . . Russ has started the last 125 games . . . Doug Wilkerson has started 113 in a row . . . Mike Fuller has started 49 in a row and Woodrow Lowe has started 43 in a row.

KSDO/1130 has the radio broadcast beginning at 10:45 a.m. with Pat Curran's NFL Weekend. Bill will televise with Curt Gowdy and John Brodie doing the call.

Williams, an All-American defensive back, will play in 3 classics: the Senior Bowl (January 13, Mobile, Alabama), the East-West Game (January 6, Stanford Stadium), and the Blue-Gray Game (December 31, Montgomery, Alabama).

Warren, a tight end, has also been invited to the East-West Game. Gilbert will be the West coach for that affair.

Williams is a 5-10, 190 cornerback from Los Angeles who has recently received the highest honor ever accorded an Aztec by being selected to the American Football Coaches Assn. (Kodak) All-American team. He was also a second team U.P.I. All-American and an All-W.A.C. selection. Provo, Delgado Star In 2 10-Round Fights At Coliseum Friday

The S.D. Coliseum has scheduled what appears to be an exciting fight card for Friday night.

Gene Miera, the light heavyweight out of Hawthorne, who has beat and been beaten by Ronnie Wilson, meets the U.S. Marine Corps scrapper, Lenie Provo in the first of 2 10-round professional boxing encounters.

Provo lost a close decision to Wilson several months ago for his only 10-bout career setback.

A bout that promises a lot of action is the other 10-rounder. It has Steve Delgado, a middleweight with a 10-2 record matched with Teddy Sanders, a fighter who is popular locally.

Delgado is trained by Eddie Futch, Ken Norton's former trainer and Sanders is under the care of Jesse Reed, a former middleweight contender. Delgado is managed by Dr. Michael Dean, well known hypnotist.

In a 6-round welter bout, Mike "Little Animal" Rundell tangles with Lalo Hernandez who has won his last 2 fights here by KO's. Rundell won 8 in a row before being stopped.

The Coliseum is at 15th and E sts. The first bout is at 8:15.

Wendy Wheat

Aztecs Now 5th In AIA Spikers

The San Diego State women's volleyball team slammed its way to a fifth place finish in the Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Volleyball Tournament for Large Colleges at U. of Alabama, December 6-9.

And in the process, the team's pretty setty, Wendy Wheat, was named to the Collegiate All-American team.

She is a 19-year-old SDSU sophomore who began playing volleyball as a Solana Beach High School sophomore.

The Aztecs entered the tourney as the sixth place seed and finished second in their pool, losing only to Utah State (the eventual champion), 2-0. Pool victories were over Nebraska, 2-0 (15-2, 15-13); Rutgers, 2-0 (15-0,15-2); Kentucky, 2-0 (15-2,15-12); and Ohio State, 2-0 (15-6,15-3). The games scores in the lone loss to Utah State were 15-9, 15-5.

After pool play was completed the seeding committee placed the top two teams from each of the four pools in a new seeding arrangement, pitting the seventh-seeded Aztecs against the second-seeded Utah State again. The Aztecs lost in the quarterfinals, 3-0 (15-2, 15-6, 15-8), which put SDSU in the consolation bracket where the best would be a fifth place finish.

The Aztecs met San Jose State in the first round of that bracket and won, 3-1 (7-15, 15-12, 15-7, 15-10). In the second round (and the battle for fifth place), the San Diegans went against Western Collegiate Athletic Association rival USC, crushing them, 3-1 (15-9, 5-15, 15-11, 15-4).

Utah State went on to defeat UCLA, 3-2, in the finals to take its first AIAW volleyball crown. Other finishes were No. 3 Hawaii, No. 4 Pepperdine, No. 6 USC, No. 7 San Jose State, and No. 8 Brigham Young.

Outdoors & Travel

By E. L. "Buck" Rogers

Good fishing guides should be placed on the "endangered species list." There are a few of them still around, but I'm afraid that the breed is following in the footsteps of the American buffalo and the Nigerian odorless skunk.

And, you know what? This deplorable situation is mostly our fault.

Remember the trusty Cree Indian guide who used to tote a freighter canoe across a portage with ease? Well, they're getting scarce these days. Most of the younger generation of guides now wear black leather jackets and platform boots and are more proficient at shooting pool and drinking beer than making portages or paddling a canoe. Few still carry on the time-honored profession of guiding. As a result, the price of fishing in Canada has gone up, and the quality of this wilderness experience is way down.

The situation with bass fishing guides is perhaps worse. This new breed of outdoorsmen now expects you to pay them a hundred bucks per day for the privilege of watching them catch more fish than you do. This situation results from the misplaced concept that catching lots of fish is the name of the game and because most of their clients don't know how to catch 'em. Yes, it's our fault. We've spoiled our bass fishing guides worse than we have the Cree professionals up north.

In Norway and Ireland, where angling is a gentleman's game, this is not the case. The fishing guide here is still a true professional and usually a pleasant fishing companion.

In Central and South America, where Gringo fishermen are still something of a novelty, guiding is just coming into its own as a profession, and the men in the business are first class. All are excellent boat handlers and knowledgeable outdoorsmen. Many cannot speak English very well, but this fact might be considered as much a blessing as a detriment. After all, when I go fishing, I'm more interested in catching fish than listening to my guide's domestic problems. If he can handle a boat and point out the best fishin' holes, that's all I require.

The best fishing guide I know of is a grey-haired lad named Laddie Buchanan. I met Laddie on a Braniff Outdoor Council trip last year and more recently accompanied him on a fishing expedition in lower Patagonia. Laddie's beat is the Andes region of Argentina, and he is a trout fisherman in the purest tradition. But, though a real artist with a flyrod, he readily admits that a Dardevle spoon or Meps spinner is sometimes more deadly for the big trout that inhabit his fishing waters. He knows more about fishing than any other man I ever met, but you would never know it from his words or actions. Laddie is a professional in the truest tradition. If there were more like him in the rest of the world fishing far horizons would be even more exciting than it is today.

But, because all of us won't have an opportunity to fish with a man like this, and because a fishing guide is still important when fishing strange waters, I suggest we use a little common sense in our association with these folks. If we did, we could upgrade the product and restore true professionalism to guiding.

Here is how it works. If you let your guide fish instead of helping you catch fish, take a siesta instead of doing the shore lunch dishes, or drink up all the beer in your cooler, you're doing a disservice to all the rest of us.

Even worse, I may get that same guide one day and have to waste valuable fishing time straightening him out.

IRS Says Tax Payment Due

Taxpayers who filed estimated tax return on their 1976 income must pay the fourth quarterly installment by Jan. 15 or file a 1040 return by Jan. 31, according to the Internal Revenue Service

The provision in the law which allows the payment of estimated tax in four equal installments means that by Jan. 15 taxpayers who filed estimated tax returns must either pay the balance due on their 1976 estimated income tax or file an individual tax return (Form 1040) on or before Jan. 31 and pay the full amount of tax due for 1976.

If taxpayers elect to pay the fourth and final quarterly installment, rather than file a 1040, they should file a declaration-voucher number 4 from the Form 1040-ES tax package, the IRS said.

All checks for payment of federal taxes should be made payable to "Internal Revenue Service," not to "IRS" or "I.R.S."

Deputies Restore Peace Says S.V. Theatre Manager

The problems of vandalism that had plagued the Spring Valley Cinema at Jamacha and Sweetwater rds. have been resolved says Kermit Wilkerson, theatre manager.

Wilkerson said the vacancy of the building formerly occupied by Thriftimart provided convenient parking for vandals who would meet there, spray paint on the side of the building, wreck the marquee and intimidate theatre-goers.

He said additional security employees had stopped vandalism and troublemakers inside the theatre.

Sheriff's deputies of the Lemon Grove office frequently park there now to write reports, he said. Their presence has discouraged vandals from congregating.

Wilkerson said rock-throwers in recent weeks had done $2,000 in damage to the marques but deputies have identified the culprits and they face charges.

He said trouble-makers, generally in the 17-18 year-old group, have been dispersed since he took over management of the theatre 3 months ago.

Theatre goers may now attend without fear of harrassment, Wilkerson added.

Early Call In for 'March of Dimes'

The San Diego-Imperial chaper of the March of Dimes is making preparations well ahead for a important volunteer fund raising program—the annual Mothers March in January.

"We would like our 1979 drive to be the strongest ever in combatting the physical and mental risks that threaten over 200,000 infants born every year in the United States," reports Thomas V. Prendergast who is serving as the health agency's campaign chairman.

"To meet this challenge, the March of Dimes is focusing on a range of perinatal health services."

Prendergast said that Mothers March captains and other leaders are being appointed early so that they can encourage a huge volunteer force to make this the biggest campaign in the history of San Diego and Imperial Counties.

"Even in a computer age," he said, there is no substitute for volnteer help in getting a job done and done well. And the name 'Mothers March' should not be misleading. The traditional Jaunary campaign welcomes men as well as women."

He suggests that anyone interested in joining the Mothers March should contact the San Diego-Imperial chapter office, 6156 Mission Gorge Road, San Diego 92120 or by calling 284-1166.

Children's Holiday Gifts Safety Tips Are Listed

Heaps of brightly wrapped toys are part of most children's Christmas, and unwrapping the toys and starting to play with them is a highlight of the holiday fun. In some households, however, merriment can soon be dimmed if the toys which have been chosen turn out to be dangerous.

When Christmas shopping or(for that matter, any time buying toys for children), buy protectively. Remember that small children often do not recognize the potential hazard in toys and even school-age children should be shopped for with safety in mind.

Here are some time to help insure a happy Christmas:

- Toys for babies should be too large to fit into the mouth, easy washable, light in weight and non-breakable.
- Tiny children are often tempted not only to swallow toys but to shove them into their noses or ears. Keep such items as beads and marbles out of their hands. The eyes of dolls and stuffed animals should be safely secured so that they cannot be pulled out and swallowed or put into the child's nose or ears.
- Children of all ages should be protected from toys with rough or sharp edges or those that may break into sharp pieces.
- Avoid toys or costumes that easily catch fire.
- Don't buy toys made of of lead or colored with lead-based paint.
- It is safe to give electrical toys and equipment to school-age children provided they have been approved by the Underwriters' Laboratory. Look for their insignia (UL) on the cord and on the toy itself.
- Any type of shooting toy —air rifles, sling shots, archery sets — and, in fact, any sharp pointed toy carries with it the danger of inflicting eye injury.

When purchasing toys for children, keep in mind not only their immediate safety but also the long-term problems they may present.

That perennial Christmas facorite, the bicycle, has become increasingly hazardous as it becomes more complex in design. Do not give a multiple speed bike to a youngster unless sure he has the skill and coordination needed to handle it. And don't given any kind of bike to the young ones in the household if living in a neighborhood that does not provide safe areas for bicycling.

A chemistry set makes a marvelous gift for science-oriented child, but give it only if the child is mature enough to understand how it should be used. Supervise the child's use of it until convinced he will handle it wisely.

Toys should bring Christmas fun into the home, but buy only those toys which are safe.

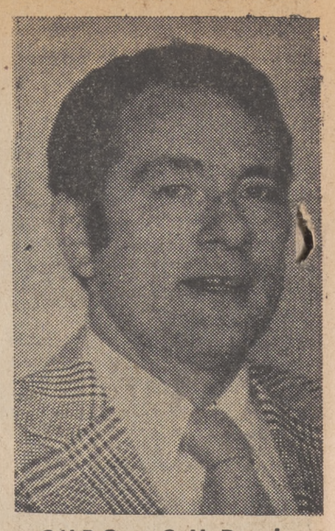
Ask Your C.H.P.



C.H.P Capt. C. M. Douglas

In his last column Capt. Douglas discussed experiments with new patrol cars and a change in patrol patterns. This week he discusses fog lamps, fire extinguishers, and proper use of lights.

If you have a question, no matter how insignificant it may appear to you, ask it. It could save your life — or at least save you a citation.

Address your questions to this newspaper, and allow several weeks for your question to appear.

I have seen a lot of cars with yellow fog lamps. What is the law regarding their use?

Fog lamps must be of an approved type and cannot exceed two which can only be used in conjunction with headlamps. The fog lamp must be mounted between 12 and 30 inches above the ground and so aimed that when the vehicle is unloaded, none of the high intensity portion of the light to the left of the center of the vehicle shall at a distance of 25 feet ahead project higher than a level of four inches below the level of the center of that lamp.

I recently purchased a camper unit for my pick-up truck, and my neighbor told me that I am required by law to carry a fire extingusher in the camper. Is there any truth to this?

Yes, the California Vehicle Code requires the operator of a recreational vehicle or camper which has a cooking or heating unit within, must carry a fire extinguisher which is in efficient operating condition. The fire extinguisher must be of the dry chemical or carbon dioxide type with an aggregate rating of 4-B:C units.

Every evening when I drive home during dusk I see cars driving with just their parking lights on. Is this legal? When do headlights have to be turned on?

It is unlawful to drive with just parking lamps on, for headlamps must be on at the same time when driving. Headlamps must be turned on when driving during darkness. Darkness in this case is defined by law to be "any time from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise and any other time when visibility is not sufficient to render clearly discernible any person or vehicle on the highway at a distance of 1000 feet."

Beetles Infest Pine Trees

The recent appearance of dying pine trees near Alpine, Escondido, and in other parts of San Diego County, has been the result of an infestation of pine bark beetles. Keeping your trees healthy is the best insurance against attack but when beetles are attacking en masse a spray containing Lindane may be used in the spring to protect pine trees, according to the UC cooperative extension office.

The most noticeable sign of bark beetle infestation is reddish brown foliage at the top of the tree. A fading or dead tree indicates a successful attack. Nearby trees, still green, may be under attack but without symptoms visible from a distance.

Close examination of trees may reveal signs of early beetle activity. Pitch tubes, small masses of pitch or sawdust like boring dust is made by some beetles as they enter the tree's bark. After beetles have reproduced in a tree, newly emerging beetles also push boring dust out of holes in the bark. Boring dust is easier to see when it collects in bark crevices or cobwebs. Signs of beetle activity are hard to detect of the damage is at the top of a tall tree.

SDG&E Signs 10-Year Contract

San Diego Gas & Electric has signed a 10-year contract with Tucson Gas & Electric for the purchase of electricity to help meet the growing energy demands of the San Diego area.

Robert E. Morris, SDG&E president, said deliveries will start early in 1979.

Morris said that electicity purchased from TGE will help meet San Diego area requirements through the early 1980s and beyond that time will partially fill the energy resource gap caused by the suspension of the Sundesert Nuclear Plant.

Noting that the purchase agreement is in line with the Public Utilities Commission's desires that SDG&E develop other sources to replace Sundesert, Morris said the purchased energy will be one of the lowest cost alternatives of any being considered.

Children in the East County area are served by the Project HOPE mobile van at Bancroft Community School in the La Mesa-Spring Valley school district from 9 a.m. to noon each Wednesday.

In the program, parents provide daily activities for their children under the direction of a preschool program aide and staff.

Mass Resignation Spurs Employee Assoc. Dismay

Calling the Board of Supervisors penny-wise and pound-foolish, Randall M. Prevo, manager of the county's 12,000 employees association, expressed dismay over the mass resignation of the county employee relations panel last week.

The five member panel resigned when the supervisors voted against continuing to pay them a $50 fee a meeting per member and $100 for meetings over 4 hours.

This summer the supervisors in an economy move voted to cut not only the employee relations panel stipends, but also those of 5 other agency advisory boards as well as the Noise Control Hearing Board, the Commission on the Status of Women and the Juvenile Justice Commission.

The employee relations panel appealed this decision but the supervisors could not be swayed last week.

"It's one more example of this county's refusal to respond to the needs of its already troubled work force," Prevo said.

The panel's resignation left the association with several matters hanging that require action by the panel. These include social services suipervisors representation election, final action on a petition for modification of a bargaining unit, and other matters which only the panel is constituted to conclude, Prevo claims.

The employee relations panel must certify all elections held by the association in the collective bargaining process.

Labor-relations attorney for the CEA, Chris Ashcraft, said the supervisors had been repeatedly embarrassed by the panel, most recently over a dispute whether hourly and temporary employees were members of the bargaining unit and thus entitled to a grievance procedure.

The panel is not an advisory commission in the usual sense, Prevo said. It was set up under the state law governing public-sector employee relations and is invested with powers decisive in improved relations, he said.

The members of the panel were quality members skilled in the personnel field, Prevo said.

"They're throwing that all away to save the county $6,000 a year," he said.

To choose a panel member, all registered employee organizations submit mutually agreed-upon names to the Board of Supervisors for ratification. CEA fears the supervisors do not understand this and may try to appoint whomever they want, Prevo said.

MAT-MAKING HANGS ON

Advent of machine-made textiles, while affecting the sale of handwoven muslin mat at Dacra, Bangladesh, there is still a demand for the old-time product made by natives.

Program Aids Small Cities In Prop. 13 Aftermath

A Small Cities Program has proven an aid to cities coping with the aftermath of Proposition 13 according to a spokesperson for United California Bank, the sponsoring organization.

The program is designed to porvide the small cities with financial and community planning techniques used in the private sector.

"The study has shown us ways to continue providing services by expanding our commercial base on the limited land available for development," William Zaner, city manager of the San Francisco suburb, Union City, said.

A heavily residential community with rising public service demands, Union City lost $1.6 million of its $2.2 million property tax income due to Prop. 13.

UCB spokesperson Lloyd B. Dennis said that the success of the effort has prompted the California Roundtable,an organization of the state's corporations, to adopt the concept and expand it in a statewide basis in the form of a loaned executive program available to any government entity requesting assistance.

Under the Roundtable the concept of the Small Cities Program will be expanded to assist counties, water and school district, public library systems and other government units with financial management and planning.

Lawyer Offers Advice–Cheap

Talk is cheap, they say. Legal talk usually is not. But for a few days in December, even legal talk will be inexpensive.

San Diego Attorney Eugene Ellis is offering 15 minutes of legal advice for $2. On December 14, 15, 16, he will be experimenting with what he calls "preventive law."

Most people wait until it's too late, or almost too late, he says, before seeking legal advice. If they wait too long, Ellis says, they may need a "messiah" rather than a lawyer.

The $2 fee does not entitle anyone free legal service to file a suit, it only pays for an answered question, Ellis said.

"If I can answer the question without a horrendous amount of research, I'll do it," Ellis said.

Day Care Center For Seniors Opens

The opportunity for older adults to be cared for during the day is now provided by the Neighborhood House Assn's Senior Protective Center. 851 So. 35th, San Diego.

As an alternative to families placing their elderly into institutions during the day, a program has been developed and funded by the Area Agency on Aging to prevent senior citizens' isolation, encourage independency and supportive service education in San Diego.

The NHA Senior Day Care Program will enable seniors, 60 years and older, to relate in similar situations and circumstances to learning experiences, idea sharing with new friends, and social activities, in addition to eating a hot, nutritious lunch at little to no cost. The program is open Monday-Friday, 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

There will be travel arrangements made to and from the Senior Center, health screenings, and blood pressure and medication monitoring. A registered nurse will be on duty, in addition to a recreation/physical therapist.

To encourage self-help and independence among seniors willing to be active participants in the program is the goal of Neighborhood House Assn's Senior programs.

Because of limited space, seniors should enroll as early as possible by calling 233-6691.

YOU AND YOUR PET

Worm, Cough Remedies

Drs. Smithcors and Newell from the California Veterinary Medical Association answer your questions about your pet.

Q. Why does my dog drag his rear end on the carpet? Does this mean he has worms?

A. In rare cases "scooting" may be an indication of worms, but the most common cause by far is impaction of the anal sacs, which are twin outpouchings of the anal canal, with openings just inside the anus. Glands in the wall of the sacs produce an odorous secretion by which dogs recognize their kind, by sniffing. Normally the secretion passes out with the feces, but if the duct becomes blocked, the accumulation of fluid causes irritation, and infection may ensue if the sacs are not empied by thumb and finger pressure on either side of the anus. Your veterinarian will usually do this routinely as part of a physical examination and probably would be glad to show you how to do this, if it is a recurring poblem.

Q. Is there any vaccination to prevent "cough" in horses? This is a common problem at the track.

A. The usual cause of "cough" at tracks is influenza, for which effective vaccines are available. Other respiratory conditions such as heaves, bronchitis, allergy and lungworms may also cause coughing and require individual treatment.

Q. My child has ringworms. Should I have my cat put to sleep?

A. Your questions implies that your cat also has ringworm, but whether it does or not, your child could have contacted the disease from another animal (not necessarily a cat) or another person. Some cats can be infected but the only external indication may be a dry and ruffled hair coat. Unless a cat is severely affected or in poor general condition, ringworm can usually be treated successfully. If large areas are involved, dipping in medicated baths may be required, and some owners may become discouraged because it is messy and may have to be repeated several times. A new drug, griseofulvin, has been very effective when given by mouth, and I certainly suggest you consult your veterinarian about the advisability of treatment before considering having your cat put to sleep. In any case the cat's quarters should be cleaned and disinfected as thoroughly as possible.

SDG&E to Connect To Arizona Co.

San Diego Gas & Electric and Arizona Public Service Company today signed a letter of agreement to construct a 500 kilovolt transmission line to interconnect their electric systems.

Robert E. Morris, SDG&E president, said the interconnection would permit SDG&E to purchase energy from Arizona and New Mexican utilities to meet the growing demand for electricity in the San Diego area in the early 1980s.

Morris said that the company hopes to conclude negotiations with Tucson Gas & Electric within a week for the purchase of power during the next 10 years. Until the SDG&E-APS transmission line is complete, the power would be transmitted over other utility lines.

The SDG&E-APS transmission line would run from a substation at the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station near Winterburg, Arizona, to an interconnection station at Yuma and then across the Imperial Valley into San Diego County, terminating at SDG&E's Miguel Substation. Energy purchased from Arizona and New Mexico utilities would be delivered to the Palo Verde substation for transmission to San Diego.

Things You Should Know About Taxes

(This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the Internal Revenue Service. The column answers questions frequently asked by Southern California taxpayers.)

Q. On my 1040 tax form for 1977 I elected the installment method of reporting the gain on the sale of some investment land, but the contract is being paid off prior to its due date. May I amend my 1977 tax return and report the full amount of the gain in 1977?

A. Your election to use the installment method for reporting the gain cannot be revoked. After the due date of the tax return on which the election is made to use the installment method, the decision may not be revoked.

Q. I am having a building erected on some land I have held for investment purposes. I will be selling the land soon after completion of the building. If the construction period runs more than one year, how will I determine what portion of the sale qualified for long-term capital gain?

A. The portion of the gain attributable to your land will be long-term if the land was held more than one year. For the portion of gain attributable to the building, you will be allowed long-term treatment on the percentage of the gain represented by that portion of the building completed more than one year prior to date of sale.

Q. I recently resigned my elementary school teaching position in order to pursue a one-year, full-time graduate course in education. May I deduct my educational expenses?

A. Educational expenses are deductible even if they are incurred during a vacation, temporary leave, or other temporary absence from your employment. If you return to teaching upon completing the course, you may deduct your educational expenses, even if you accept a position with another employer.

You may deduct educational expenses as miscellaneous deductions on Schedule A of Form 1040. These expenses include tuition, books, laboratory fees, and similar items. Under certain circumstances, they may qualify as adjustments to income. For more information, IRS Publication 508, "Tax Information on Educational Expenses", is available free at your local IRS office.

Competition Opens For Scholarships

Students from all around California began competing for numerous scholarships and grants last month through the California Student Aid Commission's (CSAC) financial aid program.

Grants and scholarships ranging in value from $200 to $2,700 are available under three different Cal Grants.

A student may use a Cal Grant to attend a vocational school for the purpose of acquiring a specific job skill as well as in the pursuit of a college degree, said Arthur Marmaduke, Director of the CSAC.

To qualify for a Cal Grant, a student must be a California resident and enrolled or planing to enroll, in a school or college within the state. Winners receive help in meeting tuition costs, and possibly a living allowance.

The Cal Grant A program helps both low and middle income students with tuition costs, the Cal Grant B gives additional assistance to high-potential students for minority and low-income families, and Cal Grant C's are awarded to students who wish to attend occupational schools and need help with tuition and other expenses.

In order to qualify for a Cal Grant, the applicant must submit an application, which includes a family financial statement, by February 1, 1979. Applications are available from high school counselors and from college financial aid offices.

Mental Health Assn. Installs New President

Dr. G. Thomas Gitchoff, criminologist and associate with the Psychiatry and Law Center, was installed as the President of the Mental Health Association Sunday during the Association's Annual Awards meeting held at the San Diego Hilton.

Speaking before over 100 Association members Dr. Gitchoff called for greater citizen involvement in a primarily government run mental health system.

"We can no longer shirk our responsibilities to the 15% of our population suffering from emotional problems. A disease which affects so many, one from which none of us is immune, cannot be left to the exclusive realm of government. Our involvement in research, education, community care, and mental health legislation is an exercise in responsible citizenship, and that is what the Mental Health Association is about," Gitchoff said.

Dr. Gitchoff replaces Mira Mesa attorney Robert C. Coates under whose direction the Association built the new Mental Health Center in Hillcrest. The new Center includes the first public mental health library. The "Ted & Audrey Geisel Library" was dedicated to the Geisels (Dr. Seuss) for their years of devotion to the emotionally disabled in San Diego.
